THOUSANDS IN KEY INDUSTRIES GET PAY HIKES

Raises Included in Agreements Reached Between Union, Management Heads.

By The Associated Press

New pay raises for thousands of workers in some of the nation's key industries—coal, steel and electric—were included in new agreements reached yesterday between management and union officials.

The new wage hikes affect a majority of the country's 400,000 soft coal workers, 18,000 CIO-United Steelworkers employed by the Aluminum Co. of America and 1,500 production and salaried workers of Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Some 17,000 workers in seven plants of the B. F. Goodrich Co. were granted 11 cent hourly raises today, in line with similar settlements reached with Goodyear and Firestone. In addition, some 8,500 CIO production workers received 12 cent raise from the Westinghouse Air Brake Co. and its subsidiary, Union Switch & Signal Co., of Pittsburgh.

The coal miners will have $1 velopes beginning July 1, when the new contract becomes effective. The pact between the operators and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, also calls for setting up a $100,000,000-a-year welfare and pension fund. The steel industry, which owns the so-called "captive" mines, did not sign the new contract.

Strike Threat Ended

A threat of an industry-wide strike July 1 was removed by the agreement between Lewis and operators. Spokesman for the steel firms said the contract was not signed because it violated the Taft-Hartley act. Unless the "captive" mine owners and Lewis reach terms, miners employed in the steel company mines are expected to strike at the expiration of the present contract June 30.

However, the producers who made the contract with Lewis mine 400,000,000 tons annually. Coal men estimated the new agreement will result in a boost in the cost of coal from 75 cents to $1 a ton.

In Pittsburgh, the Aluminum Co. of America and the CIO-United Steelworkers Union agreed to terms providing pay boosts of 10 to 16 cents an hour for 18,000 CIO employes. They are employed in Alcoa plants in Alcoa, Tenn., New Kensington, Pa., Edgewater, N. J., Mobile, Ala., Baden, N. C., Detroit, Richmond, Ind., Bridgeport, Conn., and Bauxite, Ark.

Murray Gives Figures

The steelworkers had asked for a wage hike of 13 cents an hour and the company had offered a boost of eight per cent or about 10 cents an hour. President Philip Murray of the CIO-USW said the settlement provided an average increase of 10 per cent.

The Aluminum company announced, after the settlement it would increase its basic price for aluminum by one cent per pound. The first such increase in 11 years will make the price of 99 per cent aluminum pig 15 cents a pound and of the large size 98 per cent ingot 16 cents a pound.

A wage boost of 9 to 16 cents an hour was announced by Westinghouse Electric Corp. in Pittsburgh to 1,500 production and salaried workers who are members of the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The hikes, subject to ratification by locals, are similar to recent increases granted 70,000 production workers, members of the CIO United Electrical Workers. On Thursday about 12,000 white collar workers, members of the Federation of Independent Salaried Unions, were granted boosts of from $16.67 to $40 monthly.

Make Demands of Ford

Representatives of the CIO-United Auto Workers in Detroit yesterday made new pay demands for 110,000 hourly-rated employes at the Ford Motor Co. The new demands, which add up to 30 cents an hour, were made after the union rejected Ford's offer of 11 to 14 cents hourly raises without any "fringe" increases.

The union said it will accept an across-the-board hike of 14 cents if other benefits are included. These are a company-financed medical program, higher night differential pay, more

SOAP BOX DERBY SET FOR JULY 21

Plans for Race Made at Lions Club Meeting.

The annual Soap Box Derby here has been set for Wednesday, July 21, the exact time for the running of the race to be announced later. The date was set and plans were furthered for the Derby at a meeting of a committee of members of the Marion Lions club Friday night at the YMCA.

To date, 43 entries have been received for the Derby which is being sponsored by the Lions club and WMRN. Prizes for the winners will be similar to those given in the derby last year, with bicycles going to winners in both Class A and B, fishing tackle to the one with the fastest time, and flashlights, softballs, hardballs, bats and gloves to the others.

A ramp of a permanent nature is to be constructed by the club so that it can be taken down and reassembled each year. The club is emphasizing that the ramp is to be so constructed that entrants in the derby must build their cars to the exact specifications in the rule books. Last year, the club was lenient in its inspection of the cars. An unofficial inspection is to be held on Saturday, July 17, prior to Derby Day, to enable any boys whose cars are not quite up to par to better the construction.

PENNSYLVANIA MAN IS NAMED AS CHAIRMAN

Dewey Choice of Rep. Hugh Scott Jr., Gets Unanimous Approval.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 26—Governor Thomas E. Dewey declared today that the "glowing" prospects of a Republican victory in November will bring "new hope, unity and a new sense of faith in the world."

The Republican presidential nominee predicted victory for his ticket on which Governor Earl Warren, of California, is his running mate, in an informal address before the party's national committee.

Dewey and Warren, appeared before the committee after it unanimously ratified the New York governor's choice of Representative Hugh Scott, Jr., Philadelphia congressman, as national party chairman.

Scott succeeds Carroll Reece, who has served for two years. Smiling and looking fresh after a night's rest, Dewey paid tribute to Reece, Walter Hallanan of West Virginia, arrangements committee chairman, and other public officials of what he said had been "a wonderful convention."

Asserting that it had been a "great, free and open convention, Dewey said the party prospect for November are "glowing."

"If there is anyone here who is not filled with confidence not only in the success but in the capacity of the party to end the long drought of 16 years, then nothing I can say will change that," Dewey said.

Dewey expressed "deep and purposeful hope and confidence" that "victory in November will bring the people new hope, new union and new faith in our institutions."

He said that on behalf of all members of the party as well as "the Democrats who will join us" he wanted to think "you who have borne the laboring oar."

"On Team," Says Warren

Governor Warren, who was introduced to the applauding committee immediately after Dewey spoke, declared "we are on the threshold of complete victory."

"I'm on the team. I'm going to be a loyal follower and supporter of Tom Dewey who is my long-time friend.

"It is going to be our great privilege to give the country one of the finest administrations it has ever had."

Warren referred as had Dewey, to the long period of Democratic national rule.

-Reckless to Make

The east-west twain of Dewey and Warren cut the pattern today for a GOP presidential campaign pegged to a congressional record neither helped write.

New York's governor, kingpin of the first White House drive the Republicans think they are sure of winning in 16 years, had a few cleanup decisions to make. Then he planned to head for a weekend rest at his Pawling, N. Y., farm.

Warren stuck around to talk things over before lighting out for a look at some of New York's latest stage shows.

This excursion had been planned long before Warren had any idea the vice presidential lightning would strike him at yesterday's closing session of the Republican national convention.

One of his chief decisions was to pick the new chairman of the party's national committee.

Scott takes over the chairmanship from Reece of Tennessee, who backed Taft's bid for the presidential nomination.

The Pennsylvanian's designation gave recognition to the state which furnished Dewey with a big boost in delegates when the going was hard in the early convention nomination race.

May Choose Own Director

There were indications, however, that Dewey would turn over the actual campaign management job to a special director of his own. Reports cast in this role Herbert E. Brownell, who spearheaded the successful nomination drive.

Brownell, who headed the national committee in 1944 when Dewey failed to take the presidency away from Franklin D. Roosevelt, was said to be avoiding the job again because of personal business reasons.

The assignment of various emissaries to campaign missions was only one of the tasks confronting Dewey and the big, grayhaired California governor.

Chief of these was lining up their delegates for the expected special call by President Truman and the Democrats on the record of the Republican-controlled 80th congress. Mr. Truman called it a fraud, the "worst congress in history."

Dewey and Warren made plans

FIRST REGISTRATION AUG. 16 FOR DRAFT

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, June 26—The first registration under the new peacetime draft will be on Aug. 16, national defense officials said today.

The delay is necessary, they said, in order to give the proposed 4,500 draft boards throughout the nation a chance to get organized.

These officials estimated that by Aug. 30 the first questionnaires will be in the mail to draft-eligible men in the 19-through-25 age group. After they are classified, the oldest of the 1-A's will be called up first. Barring an emergency, however, nobody will be inducted before Sept. 23.

Meanwhile, the Army, Navy and Air Force planned to announce probably Monday, that they are throwing open their ranks to enlistments by 18-year-olds for one year's service. An 18-year-old can escape the 21-month draft by enlisting for 12 months and then serving six years in the reserve.

Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall will announce at a Monday press conference how the Army plans to handle deafness. He is also expected to outline a

SECURITY LOAN DRIVE TO START IN OHIO

Savings Bond Campaign Set To Open Monday.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 26—Security loan week—a special time to buy United States savings bonds—begins in Ohio Monday.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert officially designated the seven-day period in a proclamation today and urged investment in bonds as a means of intensifying the fight against higher prices and for building buying power for the future.

Goal for the sale of U. S. savings bonds in Ohio is $175,000,000.

Loring L. Gelbach of Cleveland, chairman of the Ohio U. S. savings bonds committee pledged "the all-out effort" of hundreds of Ohio volunteers to put the 'Buckeye campaign "over the top."

Gelbach made this pledge to Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder in a ceremony in Washington during presentation of Governor Herbert's proclamation.

In accepting the proclamation, the secretary paid tribute to Ohioans for their support of the U. S. savings bonds program. He said that as of March 31, 1948, Ohioans held 2.7 billions of dollars in savings bonds.

Gelbach urged Ohioans to take advantage of the payroll savings plan at their places of business and the bond-a-month at their banks.

The security loan is scheduled to close throughout the nation July 15.

DEWEY AND WARREN GET OHIO INVITATION

By The United Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 26—The Republican 1948 standard bearers, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Gov. Earl Warren of California, today were invited to speak in Ohio during the presidential campaign.

Rep. George H. Bender, Cuyahoga county GOP chairman, extended the invitation to Gov. Dewey yesterday and personally asked the presidential nominee to make a major speech in Cleveland late in the fall.

"I have received assurances that both will come to Cleveland for major talks," Rep. Bender said. "We are going back home and get the campaign under way as soon as possible."

"While we supported Sen. Robert A. Taft for the nomination as long as he desired, we feel that the party has chosen wisely in its selections of Dewey and Warren. I have given each the assurance that they will receive the heartiest support of our county and Ohio," Rep. Bender added.

Dewey's Carefully Laid Plans Bear Ripe Fruit

By CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

PHILADELPHIA, June 26—Thursday night Thomas Dewey's carefully laid plans bore ripe fruit the nomination. So Mr. Dewey made a carefully prepared arrival on the convention platform where he delivered to the delegates a carefully rehearsed speech ornamented with fluid telegenic gestures.

The GOP standard bearer should score an "A" with today's public for devoting in that high sweet moment of personal triumph all his words to the desperate need of the modern world for spiritual unity.

Nations within the world parties within nations, groups within parties, have grown increasingly unintelligible and therefore hostile to one another. Our times are marked by an atomizing specialization and a corrupting individualism which have so isolated men from their neighbors that even within groups men born of one heritage, sometimes of one family, live out their days in an uneasy armed truce.

Chris Lose

Now a presidential nominee making his acceptance address is not expected to be a philosopher, especially a thomistic philosopher, though a mild philosophical bent is often helpful in the case of his defeated rivals. So no one should reproach Mr. Dewey for not discussing or even suggesting the means by which modern man can hope to reach that "good society" and "community of men of good will" he so properly points out is our goal.

It is enough—indeed it is a great deal to his credit, that Mr. Dewey so fully recognizes the simple truth that if modern man does not soon find a modus vivendi based on some commonly shared spiritual concept, he will obliterate himself. But the man who could present and implement that concept would have to be an evangelist — with the mind and heart of a St. Thomas Aquinas. Indeed I suspect that it would need a great saint to solve even a section of this problem of spiritual disunity in our contemporary society. And that is not the business Tom is in, at the moment.

Sees Our Problem

Perhaps that was why the delegates looked increasingly baffled as the address went on, and Mr. Dewey, well-rested, unwilted of collar, and serene of temper told them, "our problem is not outside ourselves. Our problem is within ourselves." For four long days and nights the delegates had been shoving and pushing, milling and churning against one another, and arguing among themselves; arguing and sometimes cursing; above all sweating in that great steaming hall that had come to be known as the iron lung. When Mr. Dewey assured them that all Americans are "yearning to move to a higher ground, to find a common purpose in the finer things of life," they regarded him with obedient but glazed eyes, being at that moment incapable of yearning for anything higher than an airy room on the fifth floor, and finding among the very finest things of life a nice cold shower.

Mr. Dewey had gained altitude a little too fast. In any case, his address caught many breathless, bruised and weary men and women off their spiritual base. It had the effect on some of them that an unscheduled appearance on the wings of little Eva might have had on the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" stage hands, while they were striking the scenery for a long road tour.

Good on Radio

They liked his speech better Friday morning when they found that it had gone over very well on radio and television. The folks back home, sitting on cool porches sipping cool drinks had found it inspiring to hear the candidate's voice saying, "we have lighted a beacon here in Philadelphia, in this cradle of our own independence. We have lighted a beacon to give eternal hope that men may live in liberty with human dignity and before God, and loving Him stand erect and free."

In fear it was the radio audience that lost altitude rather suddenly when they heard the totally unrehearsed unprepared, acceptance speech of his running-mate, Earl Warren, who bounced to the platform to stammer, "I feel as if I had been hit by a street car." After some really confused and excited gurgles of

Coal Crisis Averted, Report Tells Truman

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 26—The coal fact-finding board today notified President Truman that the threat of a "national emergency" bituminous shutdown has been averted by John L. Lewis' agreement with independent mining operators.

The board of inquiry, created under the Taft-Hartley act, filed a bulky report which proved an anti-climax in the light of the wage settlement reached yesterday covering 65 per cent of the national output.

The board indicated clearly it did not consider a major crisis the refusal of the steel-controlled "captive" mining companies to accept the contract.

Weddings

The Evangelical United Brethren church at Williamsport was the scene of the wedding Sunday, June 20, of Miss Mary E. Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Phillips of near Mt. Gilead, and Roland J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cor A. Smith, also of near Mt. Gilead. The double ring ceremony was read at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. C. C. Nichols. The custom of open church was observed.

Palms, bouquets of roses, glads, snapdragons and delphinium and lighted candles in two seven-branch candelabra decorated the altar.

A half-hour of nuptial music was presented preceding the ceremony by Miss Marilyn Stilwell, pianist, and Miss Glennabel Ferrel, soloist.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin styled with a net yoke ruffled at the neckline, and long sleeves which ended in points over the hands and the full skirt extended into a long train. Her double fingertip veil was held in place by a tiara of beaded pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses and showered with white ribbon streamers tied in lover's knots. She carried a white handkerchief made for her by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Edith Garverick. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Dwight Altman of Marion, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and Miss Mary Margaret Smith was bridesmaid. The matron of honor wore a gown of powder blue marquisette with lace trim. The bridesmaid wore an identical gown of dusty pink. They carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations and wore shoulder length veils matching their gowns.

Janet Phillips, Sarah Allgire and Karen Phillips, nieces of the bride, were flower girls in gowns of blue, yellow and pink dotted swiss trimmed with white lace.

Miss Ann Allgire and Howard Allgire wore a gown of light orchid bride, lighted the candles. Miss Algire wore a gown of light orchid dotted swiss and a wrist corsage of orange blossoms and roses.

Phillips Allgire, nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Dwight Altman of Marion, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man and the ushers were John Phillips, brother of the bride, Richard Smith and John Garverick of Crestline, cousins of the groom.

Mrs. Phillips wore a dress of grey floral sheer with which she combined white accessories. Mrs. Smith was attired in a dusty rose dress with white accessories. Both wore a corsage of pink and white roses.

A reception for 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. Presiding at the bride's table which was centered with a tiered wedding cake were Mrs. Stanley Allgire, Mrs. John Phillips and Misses Colleen Bachelder of Westerville and Doris Rinehart.

When the couple left for a wedding trip Mrs. Smith was wearing a pink butcher linen dress with white accessories and the white rose corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith were graduated from Johnsville High school. The bride is employed as a secretary at the Tappan Stove Co., Mansfield. The bridegroom served two years with the U. S. Army Air Corps and is now associated with his father in farming. They will reside on a farm near Mt. Gilead.

Woman's Board Praised For Aid to Hospital

Through their interest and generosity the Woman's Board of the Marion City hospital has added immeasurably to the facilities and comforts of the City hospital and made the laboratory one of the best in this part of the state, James A Mauz, hospital administrator, said today.

Funds for carrying on the board's work are derived from two major projects sponsored annually by the members—the advance sale of season tickets for the Little Grand Circuit races and the holiday dance. The ticket sale for the races, which got under way July 5 at the Marion County Fairgrounds, is in full swing with all members serving as "salesmen". Tickets also may be obtained at Markert & Lewis' cigar store, National City Bank, Hotel Marion and Hotel Harding.

Records show that the board has financed equipment at the City hospital amounting to $8,700 during the last five years Mr Mauz points out The most recent and one of the most valuable purchases has been the "surgical packs" for emergency use in the operating room.

The "pack" which includes something like 100 instruments, is kept sterilized at all times and ready for instant use, thereby eliminating time lost in the sterilizing of instruments in such emergencies as accidents and unexpected obstetrical cases. Surgeons maintain their own surgical equipment at the hospital, and when needed there is the consequent delay for time for sterilization. The cost of the instruments was around $1,000

The expenditure of nearly $10,000 over the period of the last five years, has been for oxygen machines, water sterilizer, incubators for the nursery, microscope, electrograph machine, stoke bottle and other needed equipment. In addition the board finances the hospital's annual dues to the American Hospital association and the Ohio Hospital association, has purchased a typewriter for the office, and at their meetings time is devoted to making bandages, sewing for the nursery or making drapes or other needed furnishings for the reception room.

INSURE WITH KETTE TORRANCE "317" TO BE SURE

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

THEN Faith's "new trick mind" refused enough to permit her to see Mary and Katharine.

"Oh, Aunt Katharine and Cousin Mary!" she said with the pretty poised courtesy which the rich use when she isn't disarmed in something else. "I'm sorry I didn't see you."

"We'll forgive you this time, Kitten," Mary told her with an infectious grin. "If you'll promise not to sweep us into the dustpan the next time."

Faith giggled happily

"You're almost as funny as Daddy," she said radically

"That's could be no higher praise," Mary commented, and Katharine took over

"What's this you're eliminating, darling?" my kinswoman asked.

"Mummy's change purse," she said "She thought she left it in my bedroom, but I've eliminated, and everything else, and if she left it there, it just must have put on wings and flown through the bars on the windows."

I caught my cue and acted upon it.

"I'm sure there's another explanation," I said "If you've eliminated everything—I know how thoroughly you can do that when you try—then I must have been mistaken and put the change purse somewhere else. Fortunately, I won't have to use it, ately, I won't have to use it after awhile."

"In my room!" Faith asked, and there was an expectant note in her voice.

"No, indeed," I told her "I'm taking your word on your room," and then Katharine took over

"I always need her," I said with a smile at my winsome, problematical small daughter, which she returned ecstatically. "But I haven't anything especial for her to do this morning."

"Then," Katharine hesitated realistically "Do you suppose it would be possible for me to borrow her for awhile?"

"Of course," I said heartily, and Katharine turned to Faith, speaking in the same fashion she would have used to me.

"My things are in a mess," she said "I haven't had time to sort them, and I've mislaid several things, too I'd be ever so grateful if you could give me a hand."

"There's nothing I'd like to do better, Aunt Katharine," Faith assured her gravely Then her enthusiasm broke through

"Gee Whillikens!" she said, and I pretended not to have heard her. This was no time to correct her language. I reminded myself

"I'd rather sort things than eat," she added politely.

"Will you need Faith for anything else you want us, and I know that her words were an understatement, if I ever heard one. Her father says that he is sure her last remonstrance was as a maggot's body.

"And on top of that," Faith said, "to be working with you, Aunt Katharine, that's out of this world! There's nobody I'd rather be with in all the world, except Mummy and Daddy," she added dutifully, and truthfully. I was sure.

"Then," Katharine said, "suppose we trot along. Oh, you'll need an apron. Will you run down to your room and get it, please?"

"I won't be a second," Faith said, and raced off

"Give me a ring when you're ready to have her come back," Katharine said in muted tones.

Earl Warren Will Help

THERE are many reasons why Earl Warren's nomination for vice president as Thomas E. Dewey's running mate is a happy choice.

The main reason is Governor Warren himself.

Besides being a great vote getter in California and a popular political leader on the Pacific coast, Governor Warren has become a symbol throughout the country of the new school of liberalism in the Republican party.

The members of this school are not to be confused with the so-called liberals who have made a mockery of the term in recent years. Their creed is the antithesis of the New Deal brand of liberalism which was concerned with concentration of political power in Washington and wholesale distribution of the nation's wealth.

The new liberals in the Republican party are chiefly interested in preserving the individual liberties of the people. They have sensed the danger of sacrificing liberty to collectivism, a doctrine that calls for economic security at the expense of personal freedom. They have kept abreast of current history. They know what has happened abroad when collectivism gained power. They know what has happened in the United States under the arrogant assumption that a few men in Washington had all the answers and knew what was best for all the people.

As vice president of the United States, Earl Warren would be no figurehead; he is too big a man to be buried in the job. He would be what the vice president of the United States was intended to be—a man big enough to be chief executive in his own right—a man who might be called on to become chief executive in his own right.

This will be especially important in the presidential election of 1948. The people have had a taste of the consequences of mediocrity in vice presidency. They have been burdened with the consequences of compromise in the nomination of a vice presidential candidate. If Governor Warren is elected and should be called on to assume the presidency, he would command the confidence of his party and the people.

The Republican party has given voters a strong combination of political talent. The Dewey-Warren ticket backed by the party's already demonstrated strength in congress, offers voters the prospect of the ablest government the United States ever has had—at the moment in history when the best possible government will be none too good.

Finland Prepares To Vote

FINLAND goes to the polls July 1 and 2 to elect a new parliament in what will be the only free election among Russian satellites.

Finnish politics presents an array reading from far left to far right with many intermediate gradations. The majority in the 200-man parliament rests with no one party but is shared by two of the center and a coalition of Socialists and Communists. The conservatives and parties of the center hope to make a good showing—but not too good a showing for that would complicate relations with Russia.

What they seek is a well-balanced distribution of power so that responsibility for the government rests upon a broad base.

Whatever the election's outcome, those in power will heed the words of President Paasikivi who said, "Finland can never pursue a policy directed against the Soviet Union," with that important proviso in all political plans the Finns hope to live under a reasonably free government.

Scope of the NLRB

THERE'S a difference of opinion within the NLRB over application of the Taft-Hartley act to hotels, restaurants and small businesses involved only indirectly or to a limited degree in interstate commerce.

The general counsel, Robert Denham, believes the act covers such enterprises. A secondary boycott, he says, "hurts a small business just as much as a large one. It has just as much right to protection. This is the only tribunal that can do anything for it. I don't know how it can be denied its day in court."

The board's chairman, Paul M. Herzog, would prefer not to bring the board into cases involving what he calls borderline trades and industries. But rather than set a fixed policy it will consider each case individually. This appears to be a logical decision for the board has more than enough work to do exercising jurisdiction over industries involved in large-scale interstate activities.

By Walter Lippmann

PHILADELPHIA

UNTIL the nomination of Gov. Dewey, the course of this convention was, I think, determined by the factional feud between the Dewey and the Stassen forces.

The two candidates quarreled many months ago and in the Oregon primary their quarrel became irreconcilable. Yet, as a matter of fact, they were natural allies. Within the limits of Republican philosophy both were and are, progressives in domestic and foreign affairs. By contrast with Taft and of course with Bricker, Martin, Halleck, Green, Tabor there is no question that both are progressives.

LIPPMANN

Whatever the cause of their quarrel it was not that they differed seriously on principles and measures. But because they were quarreling, it was made to appear as if Stassen was the leader of the progressives and that Dewey was the reactionary who had at all costs to be stopped.

This false alignment divided the progressive forces and drove both Dewey and Stassen to seek unnatural alliances. That Dewey should have been put in nomination by Senator Martin of Pennsylvania was as unnatural as that Stassen collaborated with Taft.

The disunity of the progressives meant that the real alternative to Dewey was not Vandenberg, not Warren, not Stassen but an outright victory for the old guard. It meant that if the nomination of Taft or Bricker or Martin was to be prevented, only Dewey could prevent it.

But as Dewey did not have the support of the other progressives, notably Stassen, but also Warren and also not Vandenberg but Vandenberg's friends, Dewey had to compromise with the old guard.

Senator Vandenberg proved to be right in his judgment that the old guard was stronger in the party than his own supporters were willing to believe. But the old guard was stronger than it was entitled to be until Dewey's nomination because the progressive forces were divided by the Stassen-Dewey feud.

Only Beneficiaries

There was no way of nominating Vandenberg by organizing a "stop Dewey" movement. For any combination formed to stop Dewey was bound to stop Vandenberg, Stassen and Warren.

The real beneficiaries of a successful stop-Dewey movement could have been only Taft or Bricker or Martin. There was no doubt about this in Taft's mind when he invited Stassen to make a provisional alliance against Dewey. With his usual straightforwardness Taft let it be known that his purpose in forming the alliance was to win the nomination for himself, and failing that to discharge his obligation by giving Bricker a run.

Gov. Dewey is therefore entitled to feel that if he had not played highly professional politics to win the nomination the whole ticket and the next administration would have been captured by the men who control the house of representatives.

As it is, the disunity of the progressives enabled the old guard to hold their ground in the convention until Dewey was nominated. Then the center of power shifted to the progressives and Warren's nomination is the result.

Gov. Dewey's Task

Manifestly it is now Gov. Dewey's task to make himself a broad and not in a factional sense the leader and the spokesman of the modern, the enlightened and the progressive forces.

They have had no abler or more effective executive and practical politician in this generation. Yet the fact is that they have not wholly accepted Dewey nor has he sought to win them. That may not be only a matter of temperament but really a consequence of the struggle for the nomination which Dewey could win only by political politics not by an appeal to the people.

Dewey has matured much since 1944, and he has matured well. His acceptance speech, which was in perfect taste combining confidence with humility and vigor with magnanimity, showed that the party has a candidate and that the country will have a president who is still growing in power and in wisdom.

Veterans Do Well in College

Places Held Open for Them in Advanced Courses.

VETERANS enrolled in emergency educational centers are getting the breaks in higher education today.

A check by the Associated Press shows that veterans applying for admission to the sophomore and junior years in regular colleges are receiving priority consideration.

The emergency centers were established to help ease the burden caused by the servicemen's readjustment act. Designed as temporary institutions for the first two years of college work, they are, for the most part, offshoots of established universities and of state and local boards of education.

Such centers as the University of Massachusetts at Fort Devens, Charlotte college center of the University of North Carolina and the Chicago and Galesburg undergraduate divisions of the University of Illinois report students from these centers already are in good standing in their universities. Places are kept open for them. On completion of their work they merely move up to the main campuses.

Dean Hugh G. Price of Montgomery Junior College, Maryland, conducted by the Montgomery County board of education, reports that "we have not experienced any particular difficulty in placing our transfer graduates for the junior year of a four year college or university if their grades and course selections have met the standards of the institutions to which they apply."

At the end of the first year of operation in June, 1947, says Charles A. Ford, coordinator for one of the Pennsylvania area college centers, some 400 students transferred to established colleges. Approximately 70 different colleges accepted these students. These colleges are distributed over the United States but the bulk of the students transferred to local colleges.

The Associated Colleges of Upper New York, consisting of Champlain, Mohawk and Sampson Colleges, chartered by the regents of the University of the State of New York, already have placed 70 percent of 2,000 students eligible for transfer this June according to Dr. Asa S. Knowles, president.

The 23 public junior colleges in Iowa had no difficulty in placing the students for their third and fourth years, says J. P. Street, director public junior colleges in Iowa.

Every center reporting said it had received the utmost cooperation from the liberal arts and business administration colleges.

The professional schools whenever possible, have been equally cooperative.

The Chicago undergraduates division of the University of Illinois, however, reports its premedical and pre-dental students experiencing a good deal of difficulty in entering professional schools.

Do these emergency centers plan to continue? Yes, as long as the demand exists. But their enrollments are gradually decreasing and a number have consolidated facilities and abandoned others.

Where the Grass Is Greener

Mass Migration One of World's Tough Problems.

AT LEAST one-fifth of the inhabitants of Europe interviewed in recent public opinion surveys would like to leave if they could, according to the United Nations Bulletin.

In an article based on an official study for U. N., the Bulletin reports the following information about world migration.

Asia is the scene of the most massive movements of human beings. China is the greatest emigration center in the Far East. Emigration is favored by Chinese authorities because remittances of emigrants are a significant item on the credit side of the government's ledger. Some 10,000,000 Chinese live abroad.

It is estimated that at least 40,000,000 Chinese have migrated in recent years. India is the source of the next greatest mass movement of human beings in Asia.

Between 1846 and 1927 nearly 55,000,000 Europeans left their countries. Rapid increase in population was the cause. Emigration relieved domestic pressures. Restrictions that went into effect in the 1st third of this century had the effect of building up the pressure. Living standards declined and other circumstances with bearing on international friction developed.

Before 1914 the United States received about 60 percent of all who emigrated from Europe. Argentina, Australia, Brazil and Canada also were favorite destinations. Emigration caused Canada's population to increase 34 percent in the first 10 years of the 20th century.

The two main sources of emigrants in Europe today are Italy and displaced persons' camps.

There is no likelihood of easier regulations over emigration and immigration. Not only have most closed their gates to all but a selected few, but many countries of origin are making it increasingly difficult for their nationals to leave.

Most important factors in emigration are large-scale destruction of industrial and agricultural equipment with a consequent decline in output and income. Loss of homes and property and a general feeling of insecurity are other causes.

Though war stimulates migration the problem is of worldwide concern even in peacetime. The pressures generated by too much population and restrictions making it impossible for restless people to go where they wish to be are among the most serious problems of the United Nations.

Under the Table

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, June 26, 1938.

A weekend rainstorm marooned nearly a thousand persons on Lake Erie islands, contributed to death on Ohio highways and drenched most of the state. Cellars in the city were reported partly flooded, utility companies reported minor trouble and the harvesting of wheat was delayed in some parts of the county. Rainfall measured 3.28 inches.

Dr. H. A. Hoopes of LaRue was one of five delegates elected to attend the American Legion convention at Los Angeles at a meeting of posts of the Sixth District held at Hotel Harding. Despite touring rain throughout the day, 250 men from Marion, Franklin, Delaware, Knox, Licking, Madison, Morrow and Union counties were in attendance and all but three of the 39 posts in the district were represented.

The annual homecoming and reunion of teachers and pupils of school District No. 1 in Richland township was held at the school building. Edgar Ruehrmund was elected president for the following year.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Upton of West Columbia street.

Three Marion members were elected to state offices of the Phalanx fraternity at a state meeting held at Newark. They were Ralph Schults, who was named secretary, Cloyce O'Brien, treasurer and Earl Bacon, member-at-large. The three were among seven members from Alpha chapter attending the session.

The heaviest rain in years in Marion county failed to keep the automobile of Rev. Sampson M. Cosey of Kentucky avenue from burning up. Driving along a road connecting East Fairground street and the Harvey road, the minister noticed flames coming up through the floorboards and was forced to abandon the car and seek aid.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, June 26, 1928.

All Marion city trolley cars were being operated as "one-man cars." The change affected only the Center and Davids street cars through the business district as the State and Main ends of the Center and Davids street line and the east and south line had been operating with one man for some time.

Mrs. Geneva Miller was elected noble grand at the semi-annual election held by Sosnowski Rebekah lodge. Mrs. Justine Gehring was elected vice grand.

A memorial service in honor of Clara Cushman, founder of the Standard Bearer society was held at a meeting of the Standard Bearers of the Prospect Street M. E. church at the home of Misses Lucile and Pauline Pellmeth on Pearl street.

Miss Gertrude Mather of Richwood left for Toledo, where she was to start on a European tour visiting the principal points of interest in Scotland, England, Belgium and other countries. She was to sail the following Friday aboard the S. S. Letitia for Glasgow, Scotland.

Thirty-five members of the Whatsoever circle, King's Daughters, attended a picnic luncheon at the home of Mrs. French Crow on South Prospect street.

In Memory of Louis H. Brush

Among editorial comments regarding Louis H. Brush, chairman of the board of Brush-Moore Newspapers, whose death occurred Thursday in Philadelphia, were the following from two Ohio newspapers.

• • •

(From The Columbus Dispatch)

Midwest newspaperdom has lost an able elder figure and Ohio in particular a constructive force in politics and civic advancement by the sudden death at Philadelphia, of Louis H. Brush. The board chairman of The Brush-Moore Newspaper group was attending the Republican convention when he was fatally stricken.

Mr. Brush learned the business from the ground up, entering circulation work after graduation from college. He purchased his first newspaper property in 1887 at the age of 25 and added to his holdings through the ensuing years, organizing the Brush-Moore papers as a collective undertaking in 1927.

Content to stay in the field of small to medium-size city journalism, Mr. Brush and his associates have given the communities in which they publish alert well-edited newspapers comparing favorably in many respects to those in metropolitan centers, yet retaining a distinctive home-town flavor.

Mr. Brush's personal career was rich in achievement and serves as one more reminder of the opportunities which offer themselves to individuals of ability and industry.

• • •

(From The Youngstown Vindicator)

Louis H. Brush, who died in Philadelphia while attending the Republican convention, was a man of many interests — educational, financial, political—but the nub of his long and busy life was newspaper publishing. His energy and ability gave modern efficient newspapers to a half-dozen of Ohio's smaller cities.

Mr. Brush was a native of nearby Alliance, where both his parents were professors of Mt. Union college. He himself was graduated from the college and later became its treasurer and one of its trustees and benefactors. His first job, however, was in the circulation department of the Alliance Review and the business side of newspaper work proved to be his metier.

Mr. Brush's career as a publisher began when at 22 he went to The Salem News as manager and on $12 a week saved money to buy an interest in it. Later he became sole owner, and from Salem reached out to other fields. Eventually he bought, sold and merged many Ohio newspapers, developing struggling ill-equipped properties into solid enterprises.

With Roy D. Moore and William H. Vodrey, Mr. Brush formed the Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., which now owns the Salem paper with which he began, also the Canton Repository, East Liverpool Review, Marion Star (President Harding's paper), Steubenville Herald-Star, Portsmouth Times and a half-interest in The Ironton Tribune. The enterprise goes outside Ohio with its ownership of the Salisbury (Md.) Times. Like other forward-looking publishers he went into radio and was president of the Ohio Broadcasting Co., owner of WHBC, Canton, and WRAY, Portsmouth.

As an enthusiastic Republican, Mr. Brush had influence in the party's national councils and indeed helped to put Warren G. Harding into the White House. He was also a personal friend of five other presidents: McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Coolidge and Hoover.

Despite his intense activity in business, Mr. Brush found time for a multitude of friendships and social contacts, for which he had a positive gift. He was an ardent hunter and golfer, he delighted to take part yearly in the old-timers' golf tournament and sometimes won it. His friendliness and democratic nature made him deservedly popular. His death at 72 ends a long, useful and happy life.

The Hub

Kansas, long recognized as the geographic center of the nation, is to have the added honor of being listed as the geographic center of the world.

The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey says a vast project to measure the size and shape of the earth will start from the small marker on the Meade ranch near Osborne, Kan.

Most of the earth's 57,500,000 square miles of land have been linked together with a network of triangles pointed directly to this marker.

These Video Commercials

IT STRIKES this department that the TV television to you] commercial is tough on the great unwashed and unlashed audience giving you not only the salesman but close-ups of the product. It throws the box, bottle, tube, carton, container and crate at you.

• • •

Take your radio straight and you get a talk on shortening, but take it by video and you get television views of the bread, cake and pies, profile, full view and sliced. You see the hair tonic in the phonogenic bottle, the garage comes bouncing into the living room, gave and dropping the ashes.

• • •

PHILLIPS

To hear about a cake of soap is one thing to have to watch it as it takes form is another. Cereals, oatmeals and salad oils are not so hard when heard but there is a question about them as a movie screen double feature.

• • •

There was this to be said about the old-fashioned radio. You could imagine the announcer was easy on the eyes. It was easier to close your ears than your eyes. If we went to the movies and the big scene was heralded by a few special shots of a can of lard, a turbine factory, a close-up of a chocolate layer cake, view from all angles we would squeak.

• • •

Elmer Twitchell is especially hostile to objects in my home being made a sales appeal for the assorted products of American industry, he declares. "Why should my home be converted into a commercial exposition hall and my parlor made a sales manager's delight?"

• • •

"TV is young and a seventh wonder. Its sheer wizardry is appealing. I appreciate being able to get pictures via the airways with a mere twisting of the dials but I call for a little toning down of the illustrated commercials. When the liver pill, the frankfurter, the gasoline and the tooth paste were heard and not seen, it pleased me better."

• • •

Nothing exasperates me more than to struggle with the dials to bring in a ball game clearly and get a lovely movie of a carton of soap flakes. When I want to see a prize fight I want a picture of the pugilists, not a soap maker. This emphasis on commercial by video comes at a time when the radio industry claims to have come out for shorter commercials. What goes?"

• • •

Mrs. Twitchell tells us that Elmer is a wreck over television anyhow. (He lives in the suburbs where he has to have an outside aerial of such size it makes his bungalow look like a naval station, she says. And Elmer insists that planes mistake his house for a beacon.)

• • •

"But the illustrated commercials are what unnerve him," says Mrs. Twitchell. "Me? Well a jingle is certainly harder on the nerves when I see the perpetrators."

One delegate to the Philly convention is a full blooded North Dakota Indian. He is easily distinguishable from all the others by his dignified conduct.

Television, it seems to us after watching the telecasts of a party convention, makes things brutally clear. A candidate can no longer keep from the people the fact he has a lousy tailor and seldom presses his pants.

Life must seem to a young man of today largely one induction after another.

It seems to us that there is a new source of atomic energy in a man going down a crowded street on a motorcycle.

Bill Betrolotti assumes that people who attend that new university of the air will graduate Magna Cum Laudespeaker.

A group of writers are seeing the motion picture producers claiming that its resolution not to employ any known Communist or anybody else advocating the overthrow of the United States government by force is so vague that it hampers the writing trade.

What's vague about it?

Whose Housework

By TRUMAN TWILL

A twist that everybody knew was sure to come is confirmed by a trade magazine for the electrical industry. The magazine reports that men are so fascinated by mechanical gadgets to make housework easier that they're performing housekeeping chores as a hobby.

Women on the other hand are claiming to be more and more baffled by the trend toward the machine age in the home and are stepping aside to let men play with automatic washing machines and all the other cute devices. If the stupid saps aren't careful, they'll find themselves holding the bag.

Take juke box laundries, for example, where the family washing can be done for two bits a tubful. The trade magazine says the proprietors of these establishments report more and more men are bringing in the dirty clothes to be swished clean and are much easier to handle than women. The men follow directions, keep calm, cool and collected and seem to enjoy watching the automatic washing machines do their work. Women by comparison, are fussbudgets.

All this was seen coming and it's a joke on the men. They were the ones who thought up the mechanical household helpers in the first place. Women would still be doing all household work the hard way if they'd been left in charge of it.

They'd rather work like dogs and complain about it than to think up a new gadget. And even after men have designed the gadgets made fool proof and offered them for sale, women are balky.

Millions of them have to be high-pressured into accepting anything new. By instinct they cling to the old-fashioned methods of keeping house. They have fought progress every step of the way.

As simple a thing as an ordinary mop is likely to be turned down in favor of an acute case of housemaid's knee.

They do not trust what they cannot understand. They shy away from black magic. They are born with a dread of machinery and never quite get over it. Like trained seals in a circus they can be taught to perform tricks—but never to show initiative.

Reluctantly they have conceded that some of the household time-savers are kinda cute—"but John, dear, you know all about such things so why don't you do it—that sort of clinging-vine psychology.

So good old John, the dumb ox, has stepped into the trap and won't even know what happened to him until about 25 years from now when he realizes that bit by bit he was edged into doing 90 percent of the housework as a concession to his helpmeet's claimed inability to understand the marvels of science and electrical energy.

Better come to Johnny while there's still time. Mama ain't as dumb about machinery as she lets on. She's just a whole lot brighter about psychology, that's all.

Mixing Politics and Religion

A Sermonette

* * *

By Rev. Harold A. Hunter
Pastor of Wesley Methodist Church

TEXT. "Behold I will not a plumb line in the midst of my people Israel." Amos 7:8.

NOT long ago a lady in this city told me that she would not go to a certain church again because the minister made some political references in a sermon she had heard I suggested that it might be a good thing all the way around if a little more religion were injected into politics but also expressed unimpressed A lot of people seem to have the idea that the pulpit should leave such matters as politics and the problems of labor race and war severely alone if for no other reason than that some of the listeners might not agree with what is said and controversy would result There is nothing new in this attitude as one can easily determine if he will turn to the Old Testament prophets and read what they had to say

The one thing which made the prophets tower out above all their contemporaries was just their insistence that religion was spurious unless it was applied to life Let any one read the brief chapters of Amos and see how he dealt forthrightly with those who were oppressing the poor So disturbing was his voice that the priests the caretakers of institutional religion complained to the king that "the land is not able to bear all his words" The defenders of the status quo have always so complained They raise their voices today just as loudly as did the priests of that day Isaiah and Jeremiah dealt constantly with the issues of bad political policy—and of course were in hot water much of the time because they did The old prophets never failed to relate religion to the vital issue which concerned the daily lives of men

If we step over into the New Testament the same tradition holds. John the Baptist delivered himself without fear or favor against the graft which was commonplace in his day Jesus dramatized his attitude in a striking way when he drove the money changers from the temple. The central message in all his preaching was the imminent nearness of the Kingdom of God and the necessity of all men to repent and get ready for it. It is hard to see how we can come to grips with what Jesus meant by the Kingdom of God without dealing directly with the major social issues of our day. I understand fully the age old tendency to interpret his words about the Kingdom of God as referring to some far-off blessed day when the affairs of this world have folded up. But as he thinking the kingdom of God—or the rule of God in men's lives—was something to expect and prepare for and work to see realized here and now for he taught his disciples to pray "thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." Obviously the Kingdom of God will not come until the society of which we are a part is rooted in the will of God. That means that in such matters as our relations with other nations we shall proceed on the basis of a Christian ethic It means that in dealing with the race problem we shall put into practice the teachings of Jesus It means that in the conflict between labor and management the details of Jesus shall be put first. Politics is no exception to this rule

In these days when the politicians are picking their candidates and writing their platforms, it behooves the Church of Christ to be doubly alert in what is going on A moral obligation rests upon us to scrutinize carefully what has been done by those who represent us and study closely what is proposed for the future The hour is here for the Church to deal fearlessly with the issues which concern us in matters of the state and nation We have a witness to give and we must give it We have a light to hold aloft and now is the time to let it be seen.

Placing the Garage After House Is Built

Due to the present high cost of building a house, many of the small homes recently constructed have been built without a garage In many instances the garage has been built later and without too much regard for the effect it has on the appearance of the house

There is nothing particularly good-looking about the gaping door of the average garage and aside from that fact the exposed interior is usually quite disorderly with garden tools and discarded household equipment

The garage illustrated faces the street or road and is attached to the house by a breezeway Even though the door were closed, the effect does not improve the appearance of the house It would be better to have the door face the side of the building plot even though the breezeway had to be eliminated Where there is sufficient ground available, it would be better yet to have the garage entrance at the rear, and placing a window in the wall facing the street would match the windows of the house

Without additonal cost the average homeowner likes his house to look as large as possible It may be noted by the illustration, that if the garage roof ran parallel with the house roof, that the whole assembly would appear larger than though the garage roof was at right angles as shown This is simply an application of the old architectural rule that continued horizontal lines lend length to a house while a break in the lines fore-shorten the building

Many homes which are actually small appear large when the garage is extended from one side and a screened or glassed-in porch extended from the other side

The garage should not be jammed up against the house at any angle or in any position without due consideration to the effect It will cost no more to have it correctly placed and to the best advantage architecturally

Shingle Stain

Q. My home was shingled last fall with a pre-dipped brown shingle After the job was completed I developed the shingles needed an additional coat of stain and on the advice of a friend, stained it myself with one coat of a prepared creosote stain which I mixed 50-50 with linseed oil, with burnt umber added for coloring. The shingles looked fine after being done but now appear streaked and bare Would you advise an additional coat of the same mixture or would another kind of paint or stain be required to give the shingles a good finish?

A. If you bought a prepared shingle stain I do not understand why you changed the formula I suggest that you either give the shingles another coat of the stain leaving it the way the manufacturer made it or else apply the following mixture 4 gallons raw linseed oil 2 gallons coal tar creosote oil and 1 gallon japan drier If the color is not dark enough add burnt umber ground to the mixture

Basement Brick Repairs

Q My home has a partial basement with a brick foundation In a few places the bricks have come loose and fallen out I would like to repair these places and put a cement or stucco finish on the surface of the entire brick foundation What kind of material should I use to do this?

A. For tuck-pointing the brick work you could use 1 part Portland cement 1 part hydrated lime and 5 parts of clean, coarse building sand, with just enough water to make a workable mixture You also could get a ready prepared mix, as sold by dealers in masonry supplies Before packing in the mortar rake out the old mortar to a depth of half an inch or so clean out loose bits and wet the grooves with water You then could give the foundation two coats of cement base paint containing an integral waterproofing compound This is sold also by dealers in mason materials It is a powder to mix with water If you have had experience in masonry work you should have no trouble in doing the job If not you had better hire a mason Portland cement plaster can be put on metal lath over the brick A leaflet on this work can be obtained from the Portland Cement Association 33 West Grand Ave Chicago, Ill

Dented Rubber Tile

Q What can be done to raise the indentations made in our rubber tile floor by the metal pieces attached to the feet of our kitchen chairs? We have since removed the metal pieces but the marks still remain

A. I doubt if anything can be done Composition floors should be protected from denting by the use of glass casters under the feet of heavy furniture These are not practical for chairs of course

Church Takes Offering For Mission Schools

A special gratitude offering to build schools in the South Sea islands was given by the Marion Seventh Day Adventist church today as the congregation joined approximately 3000 Sabbath schools of the denomination in North America in contributing to the special fund

Elder H G Gauker local pastor stated that the schools will be built in gratitude to Christian natives who during the war saved allied servicemen Some en-500 allied servicemen Some endured torture rather than reveal to the enemy the hiding places of allied men Now they are calling for Christian mission schools Surely we are obligated to assist them in their search for better living"

One school is to be built in Inland New Guinea in territory still largely unmapped, another on Guadalcanal

Rails Ask More Money To Carry U.S. Mails

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, June 28 — The nation's railroads have told the Interstate Commerce commission the post office should pay them 40 per cent more than they are now getting for carrying the mail.

The carriers asked for a 45 per cent increase last year but got only 25. This was a temporary increase pening a final decision in the case. Today they amended their original request to ask for a permanent 65 per cent jump over rates in effect the first of last year.

They said higher wages and other costs have caused them to revise their original estimate.

The commission estimated the temporary 25 per cent increase would add $35,000,000 a year to railroad revenues.

WASHINGTON, June 28—AFL President William Green said today that the AFL's political league will "never" support the Dewey-Warren Republican presidential ticket.

Green made the statement to reporters after a conference with President Truman at the White House.

Asked if he thought Mr. Truman could defeat the Dewey-Warren ticket in November, Green replied:

"That depends on the Republican auxiliary, Henry A. Wallace and his party.

"The Republicans could well afford to finance Henry's campaign."

The Dewey-Warren ticket will not get much labor support on "the record of platform," the AFL president said.

In saying the AFL political league would "never" support Dewey and Warren, Green first was asked if the AFL would back the Republicans.

He hesitated and gave no answer. Then he was asked if the AFL's political league would "Never," he replied quickly and with emphasis.

The league was established by the AFL's 66th convention in San Francisco last October to work for the ejection of a liberal congress that would repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor law.

The sheriff's office intensified search for him after he was reported to be back in town.

He had been sentenced to one to three years for fraud entering th reformatory March 3. He escaped from the reformatory farm the night of June 15 together with two other inmates. Deputy Fink said no word had been received here that the other two escapees have been caught.

Steelman To Confer With Rail Spokesmen

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, June 28— Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman planned today to confer with railroad industry spokesmen on a new "package" settlement of the wage dispute with three rail brotherhoods.

The brotherhoods representing engineers, firemen and switchmen submitted their proposal to Steelman yesterday. He said he would study it, talk with the railroad operators, and report back to the union leaders next week.

The unions reportedly reduced their demands for a $3-a-day pay boost and some 25 changes in working rules. The government has been operating the railroads since May 11 when the lines were seized to head off a nationwide strike by the three unions.

WHAT GERMANS KNEW PROBED

Grilling of 2 at Nuremberg May Disclose Knowledge of Atom Bomb Project.

By International News Service

FRANKFURT — Possibility that the world may soon know how much or how little the German High Command knew of the Oak Ridge Atom Project at the time of Pearl Harbor was foreshadowed in Frankfurt yesterday.

Implicit in the questioning of the imprisoned and silenced secret service Nazi espionage ring in the U. S. was given by a U. S. Army announcement that Ernest Burger and George Dasch, the two would-be Nazi U-boat saboteurs recently pardoned and returned to Germany by President Truman, have been transferred to Nuremberg for special interrogation.

The two former Nazi spies who turned themselves in during the early days of the war gave evidence which led to the arrest of all in the U. S. of an industry sabotage mission in 1942 aroused the curiosity of authorities here. In a press conference at Ludwigsburg, Burger admitted that at the time of the mission "the word 'Manhattan' meant more than a geographical location."

Manhattan A Code Name

(Manhattan was the code name used to describe the Oak Ridge Atomic project, still the topmost secret of the U. S.)

Burger's statement as well as the interview were overshadowed by world events at the time. However, local correspondents were intrigued by the reappearance on the postwar German scene of the two former key Nazis. The pair constitutes an "unknown quantity" as so far as each represents a publicly untapped source of information.

Neither has, as yet made public statements in the U. S. and even though pardoned, they may both be denazified and probably serve stiff sentences.

Complete contrasts both in personalities and background, Burger and Dasch represent totally different political views.

Burger was one of Hitler's first lieutenants in the street battle days when the Nazis "fought communists in the streets." He served as adjutant both to Rudolph Hess and Chief of Staff Ernst Roehm (central figure in the famous blood purge of 1934 and rose to high position in the SA command.

U. of Berlin Graduate

A University of Berlin engineering graduate and trained newspaperman, Burger in perfect English interspersed with current slang he picked up at Atlanta, Ga., told newsmen his job was to "visit" various foreign countries usually a few months before the[y] fell into Hitler's hands.

He said that he was an observer and wrote reports. He did not state what the reports were.

The one-time Nazi claimed he got "in Dutch" with the Gestapo who arrested him after his protests over Polish occupation policies. He said he then joined a "well-organized underground devoted to bring about the downfall of Hitler."

FARM DEATH TOLL

By International News Service

CHICAGO — Farm resident deaths from accidents increased nine per cent in 1946 as compared with 1945, the National Safety Council said recently. The 1946 toll was 18,500 as compared with 17,000 for 1945. Practically all of the increase was the result of an upsurge in the number of farm residents killed in motor vehicle accidents. The motor vehicle total for 1946 was 7,000 as compared with 5,500 for 1945.

GLAMOUR SWEATER. Newest fad of the season is making hand-knit items of a new inexpensive knitting ribbon which comes in a rainbow array of colors. This striped ballerina length sweater is done in contrasting shades of ribbon and metallic thread. Easy to make, flattering to wear, it can be used as an evening sweater or can double for daytime occasions.

Your Good Health

By DR. IRVING H. BUNKER

Best for Sick People To Get Up as Soon as Possible

THE human body was made for action and suffers in every part from long periods of forced inactivity. That is why modern medicine decrees that all patients shall be up and about at the first possible moment.

The dangers of over-long rest in bed are many and the functioning of nearly any organ of the body can be adversely affected. For instance when a person lies in bed day after day secretions are likely to collect in the small tubes of the lungs. This, in turn, may lead to pneumonia. Furthermore, movement of the chest is limited and expansion of the lungs is interfered with.

The sluggish circulation which results from prolonged rest in bed accounts for two of the most common and disabling conditions which develop from inaction. The slower blood flow is frequently responsible for the formation of a blood clot in a vein and the subsequent lodging of a bit of this clot in some vital organ, such as the lungs. This is known as an embolism. The formation of a clot may be in part produced because of the pressure on the veins by the weight of the legs against the bed.

Bed sores are a common development in overweight patients who remain in bed for prolonged periods of time. The pressure of the heels against the bed may produce sore spots which are a source of great pain and misery even though the skin is not broken.

When a person lies quietly in bed for some period of time certain of the muscles may contract and others may be stretched. This may result in crippling with either stretching of the foot or stiffness in the knee joints. Many convalescent patients may find walking painful because of these things.

It is also believed that in elderly persons particularly prolonged bed rest may lead to the taking up of calcium or lime from the bones. This often may be a serious matter leading to easy breaking of the bones when the patient finally is up and about.

Another condition which may be due to prolonged bed rest is the development of stones in the bladder and kidney.

Indigestion and heartburn often are observed after a few days in bed. There is loss of appetite and constipation occurs so frequently as to be almost taken for granted in such patients.

The person confined to bed too long may become fussy, irritable and quarrelsome or may develop an exaggerated idea of the seriousness of his illness.

To avoid all these difficulties, bed rest must be prescribed to meet the individual needs.

Questions and Answers

H. A. Will you please tell me something about pinworms?

Answer: Pinworms are probably brought into the body by water or food, and the most common symptom of their presence is itching about the opening of the rectum.

If there is local itching, a mild sulphur ointment should be used. To remove the worms from the rectum, such drugs as methylene blue or hexylresorcinol are given internally. Since the child constantly reinfects himself he must have his fingernails trimmed very short. He must wash his hands carefully before he eats and immediately after every visit to the toilet.

REPUBLICANS

of that record. But they made it clear in separate news conferences yesterday that they have no intention to flinch at the things that were done or left undone.

Dewey told reporters he thinks the Republican lawmakers made a "remarkable record." He listed as accomplishments the state of the European recovery program, the income tax cut and the setting up of a realistic foreign policy.

On other subjects, the New Yorker said that if he is elected he certainly will have a woman in the cabinet.

He announced plans not only to have Warren sit in with the cabinet a vice presidential slip added by Franklin D. Roosevelt but to have his running mate share in major policy decisions.

Asked if he thinks he could "handle Joe Stalin," Dewey replied that he plans to depend on normal diplomatic channels, rather than personal meetings, to get things done.

Not for "Personal Diplomacy"

Not that he would object to a meeting with Stalin, he hastened to explain. But he said he thinks "personal diplomacy"—as Roosevelt and Mr. Truman have handled it—has been a failure.

He criticized the Truman administration's policies toward China as "niggardly, faltering, inconsistent and blundering to the point of tragedy."

Dewey called the GOP platform, based on the congressional record, "entirely satisfactory."

When the top man on the ticket had concluded his conference, Warren took over.

He said he and Dewey agree in general on basic policy matters, adding:

"If my views had been antagonistic to those of Governor Dewey it neither would have been probable nor right for me to have been placed on the same ticket with him."

Warren told reporters that he hadn't expected to be tapped for the vice presidency — a choice made by Dewey's 'brains board' in an all-night session.

When he was sound asleep, his bedside telephone rang at 4:30 a. m. Warren said. It was Dewey. He wanted to see Warren. The Californian got up dressed and hurried over to Dewey's hotel.

At that time, Dewey had told reporters, Warren said he was available for the vice presidential nomination.

Joe Louis Announces Retirement After Knocking Out Joe Walcott in Eleventh

Champ Displays Brief Flash Of Old Savagery

By TED SMITS
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 26 — Joe Louis' proud reign as heavyweight boxing champion of the world is ended—by the only man who could end it, Joe Louis himself.

Flashing for 19 seconds all the savagery that brought him 52 knockouts in 61 fights, Louis stretched out Jersey Joe Walcott on the hot canvas of Yankee Stadium in the eleventh round last night.

His revenge secured, his pride soothed, he said he was quitting. This created confusion as great as when Gene Tunney retired undefeated in 1928.

Walcott himself, Gus Lesnevich and Ezzard Charles crowned up as claimants.

Sol Strauss, acting head of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, said he would put on a series of fights to determine the successor.

Against Louis, Walcott sidestepped and danced through 10 rounds just as successfully as he did last December when Louis managed to win a disputed, split 15-round decision.

Then Jersey Joe made the mistake in the eleventh of trying to mix it at the ropes. He had been told not to do it. The champion's crunching blows flashed as of old, right and left, against Walcott's head and body.

Walcott went down flat, struggled up to his knees, almost rose at nine, fell again, and was up soon after the count of ten. But it was over, with only four seconds more to go in the round. There was a great surge to the ringside, and an exultant roar from the crowd.

"For my mother—this is for her—tonight was my last fight," said Louis. Later he said he would enter politics.

"I'll be active in this year's presidential campaign," he declared, adding that he would announce next week whom he would support.

Louis went out at 34 years of age as one of the greatest of champions. He had held the title longer than any one else — 11 years and three days. He defended it more often—25 times. He earned more money in the ring—$3,365,000. That does not even count movie, radio, and television rights.

LOUIS KAYOES WALCOTT FOR FINAL VICTORY. In his final defense of the world's heavyweight championship, Joe Louis stands with cocked fists over the prostrate body of Jersey Joe Walcott as the challenger sinks to the canvas for a 10-count in Yankee Stadium, New York. Louis won at 2:56 of the eleventh round. (International Soundphoto)

NEW YORK GIANTS BLANK REDLEGS, 7-0

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 26—Johnny Mize, who admits his batting eye has been out of focus recently, accounted for three runs here yesterday as the New York Giants blanked the Cincinnati Reds, 7-0, behind Ray Poat's masterful three-hit pitching.

"Big Jawn" slammed his 15th homer of the year with a teammate aboard in the first inning and accounted for Ottmen's third run in the third frame as his long fly enabled Buddy Kerr to score.

Babe Young, Danny Litwhiler and Dewey Williams managed a safety apiece off Poat, a curve specialist who notched his sixth win and third shutout of the season.

The Giants got eight hits. Herman Wehmeier, the loser, yielded six in the first seven innings. He was followed by Ken Raffensberger and Walker Kress. The New Yorkers counted four times in the eighth.

BOB NIEMAN HIKES AVERAGE TO .403

Muncie Slugger Retains Loop Hitting Crown.

Muncie's battering Bob Nieman hiked his big batting average to .403 this week to lead Ohio-Indiana League batters as late Howe News Bureau reports showed he had practically staged out a claim to most of the loop's hitting laurels by hammering out high tallies of 70 hits, 134 total bases, 11 home runs, and 49 runs batted in.

Portsmouth's George Staller was second with .366 followed by Newark's Bob Dill with .355, Lima's Joe Fristna with .354, and Zanesville's John Pulcini with .327.

Lima's Dan Mogoto posted a 5-1 record to wrest league pitching laurels from Len Klaus of Springfield, though Springfield's Joe Greco and Muncie Ken Lanning lead in games won with nine apiece. Greco also leads in strikeouts with 96, but Marion's Ray Poat and Nick Allvojvodic are hot on his heels with 90 whiffs to their credit.

Marion's Bill Bolduc, third in the important runs-batted-in column with 41, and third in total bases with 101, leads the pack in doubles with 21.

Pete Schnepf of Marion, Dick Vonderhaar of Springfield and Jerry Mack of Zanesville have all banged out seven triples.

Muncie retained their lead in batting and fielding averages, collectively hitting .283 and fielding .942.

Marion is tied with Zanesville for second place in hitting with a .272 mark, but the Cubs are in seventh place in fielding with a .920 mark.

The fielding averages reflect the team standings in the league almost exactly, the only exception being that Lima is third in fielding but sixth in the won and lost column.

Next game for the Maids will be played Sunday against an Akron team on the Goodrich diamond. Game time is 1:30 p. m.

Softball Slants

By GEORGE SCOTT

Monday is anything but blue for the ball players of eight teams that make up the Sunday school league in Marion's soft ball program.

At 6:15 every Monday night the league's teams battle it out on diamonds at Garfield park Eagles field, and Harding field.

With a record of five wins and no losses St Mary's senior nine seems to be the team to beat. With undisputed possession of first place, St. Mary should take the first round of play.

The team boasts of a brother battery in Dick and Don Moran. Dick does the hurling and Don is his catcher.

Close behind tied with Epworth M. E. for second place, is the league's champion last year Forest Lawn Presbyterian. Managed by Henry Meyers, the team rests its hopes on the pitching of Dwight Wilcox and a number of long ball hitters.

AFTER A COUPLE of dismal seasons Epworth M. E. has come bouncing back this year. Shutout artist Guy Lewis and heavy hitters like Bob Birden and Max Roseberry have put the nine in third place. The team is managed by John Clark who was playing ball in 1899 and organized the first church team and Ralph Roseberry.

Greenwood Evangelical is managed by Ray Donaugh who has been in soft ball a long time and still plays the game. They have a record of three victories and two defeats.

Champs two years ago, Trinity Baptist lost many of its outstanding players and is rebuilding. Jean Martin is their manager.

St. Mary's junior team is made up of St. Mary's high school boys. They, Oakland Evangelical (new to the league this year) and First Church of the Brethern are in the building process.

Shanty Town Wins Over Ward W, 7-6

Shanty Town, trailing, 3 to 0 going into the fifth frame in a Commercial league game last night, exploded with a four run spree to lick W. & W., 7-6. The win gave Shanty Town a record of six wins and no losses and a first place tie with Company C for the league lead. W. & W. Provision Co. held to the third place spot with a 3-2 record.

Provision fell to the side in the big fifth when the Shantytowners rapped out three hits and two men reached base on errors.

Kenny Somerlot was power hitter for W. & W., getting three singles, a double and a walk. Frank Grubbs for Shanty Town and Creasap of W. & W. each hit four baggers with one on.

Shanty Town and Company C will meet next Tuesday at McKinley park to decide the first round championship. The Panamanian, competing unattached, also tied the existing recognized record for 100 meters by traveling the distance in 10.3 seconds.

Hogan-Demaret Gun For 3rd Inverness

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., June 26—Whether Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret can win the Inverness best-ball tournament's $3,000 top prize three times in a row may be settled today as they run into the hottest pair in the 126-hole $10,650 classic.

After bowling over a couple of opposing duos yesterday, the two favored hot-shots paced the eight-team professional pack with a plus seven score three ahead of the nearest foe.

But today they meet the second-placers, drawling E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., and Bob Hamilton, the former PGA ruler from Evansville, Ind.

Harrison and Hamilton have fired three consecutive 68's over the rolling Inverness terrain. Scoring 22 birdies and an eagle in 54 holes, but the best they've been able to do is win two matches by two up and break even in the other.

Muncie Defeats Cubs, 3-2, in Eleventh Inning

Treinen's Homer Gives Trava 2nd Win in 2 Nights

By BILL SIKH

Hal Treinen's 11th inning homer, his second circuit clout in two nights, gave Muncie pitcher Ray Trava his second win in two nights as the Reds swept the two game series from Marion's Cubs with a 3 to 2 victory.

Trava came in in the seventh with the score knotted at 2-2 and held the Cubs to a pair of blows in finishing out the game the second extra-inning affair on the Lincoln park diamond this season.

Richmond's Braves will be here for a three-game set, a single encounter tonight and two Sunday.

Reds Had to Fight

The Reds had to fight for the win, however as Marion's Bob Adkins, signed after graduation from Cincinnati Purcell High school two weeks ago kept the at bay with a wicked slider un Treinen lifted one of his pitches over the left field wall in the 11

Adkins, a right-hander got off to a shaky start, giving up four hits in the first two innings but bore down the rest of the way out in going the full route. He displayed plenty of control and the Cubs in back of him plenty of fielding, in the duel with Hal Ensley and Trava.

A walk fielder's choice a single by Frankie Santora and Ensley's double plated two Muncie runs in the second inning. From there until the 11th, Adkins blanked them on three hits.

Zeke Bekeza walked to open the Cubs sixth and came home on Bolduc's double, to give the Cubs their first run.

Schmitt Singles

Don Schmitt opened the Cubs seventh with a single to left. He moved to second on a balk. Adkins sacrificed him to third. Pete Schnepf walked and Schmitt scored on a double steal. Then Trava came in replacing Ensley.

Sensational stops by Schnepf and Gene Bobzean who totaled seven putouts and six assists featured the top of the ninth.

Treinen's homer in the eleventh came with one out and none on.

A total of 11 bases were stolen in the game, eight of them by Marion.

CLEVELAND STILL ON TOP BUT DANGLING

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 26—Cleveland's Indians dangled precariously atop the American league standings today with both the Philadelphia Athletics and New York Yankees in a position to take over the leadership.

The veteran Early Wynn pitched and batted the Washington Senators to a 3 to 2 win, collecting three of the seven hits off Bob Lemon, driving in two runs and permitting the Tribe only six hits.

The tying and winning runs in the seventh were unearned and came after Joe Gordon's 11th home run in the sixth inning had put Cleveland on top 2 to 1.

With one away, Al Kozar singled. Johnny Sullivan bounced what appeared to be a double play ball to Lemon, but the ex-infielder threw high to second. Both runners were safe. Al Evans moved both runners up as he grounded out. Wynn then tapped a slow roller and was safe at first. Kozar and Sullivan raced home.

The Indians got their first run in the third on Jim Hegan's single and Lemon's double.

Branca Runs Win Streak To 7 As Brooks Nick Cards

By The Associated Press

"Ralph Branca is finished." That was the opinion shared by many following the big Brooklyn Dodger righthander's dismal showing in the 1941 World Series against the New York Yankees.

The belief gained momentum when the hawk-nosed pitcher was knocked from the mound in his first three starts in the current National league season.

Today, however, Branca is in line for a pitching assignment on the National league's All-Star team.

Following his third trip to the showers, he won a game, lost two tough ones and then embarked on a winning streak that has reached seven straight.

Win 3-2

The St. Louis Cardinals are his latest victims. Branca tamed the Red Birds 3-2 in Brooklyn last night to post his ninth victory. He has lost five. Branca held the Cards to seven hits, fanned six and walked only one.

The Cards fell a game and a half behind the league leading Braves who swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-3, in a night game at Boston.

Jimmy Russell, Tommy Holmes and Alvin Dark belted homers to spark the Boston attack. Warren Spahn coasted to his sixth triumph, scattering nine Pirate hits.

The Philadelphia Phillies edged the Chicago Cubs, 2-1 behind Dutch Leonard at Philadelphia. Dick Sisler's double and Del Ennis' single produced the winning run in the seventh frame.

Giants Trounce Reds

In the only day game in either league the Giants trounced the Cincinnati Reds 7-0, as New York Ray Poat held the Reds to three safeties in gaining his sixth victory and third shutout of the season.

The Philadelphia Athletics moved into second place, a game behind the front-running Cleveland Indians in the American league pennant chase by downing the White Sox, 4-1, in Chicago.

The Indians were nosed out, 3-2, by the Washington Senators. It was the faltering Tribe's ninth setback in their last 13 starts.

At Detroit, the Tigers turned back the New York Yankees, 4-2, to drop the Yanks from second to third place in the standings, four percentage points behind the Athletics.

The St. Louis Browns upset the Boston Red Sox, 9-6 at St. Louis.

Maids To Play On Dedication Program

Smitty's Maids, winners of nine of ten softball games to date and Marion seventh district champions last year, will battle the Cleveland Rangers, metropolitan champions July 2 at Willard.

Their game will be one of a pair of games to be played at dedication ceremonies of the Willard Elks softball field and the Elks promise of furnishing a top-notch bit of play.

Reigning Auditors of Columbus, former champions of the nations softball league, will engage the Willard Elks team in the feature attraction of the day.

A special feature event, however, will be a 60 meter dash by Stella Walsh, former Olympic track champion who will try for a world's record.

The girls game will start at 7 p. m.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

W. STUART SYMINGTON III, born June 26, 1901, secretary for air in U. S. defense, went to Washington as surplus property chief in 1945. Behind him was a record as business executive who made sick firms tick. He made friends with a left wing labor leader to set up widely hailed good relations with men in his St. Louis radio company. He is a member of a wealthy family.

Shot as Intruder, Sues for $50,000

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., June 26—James A. Wheeler asked $50,000 today for a joke that backfired.

In a suit in Wood county common pleas court, Wheeler declared that on Dec. 6, 1947, he crossed the street to the yard of his neighbor, Harrison J. Berry, and was "perpetrating a joke" by turning out the lights on Berry's outside Christmas tree.

Berry, he said, mistook him for a trespasser and fired a shotgun at him. Ten operations were necessary to get the 10-odd pellets out of his body, and he still is unable to work and walks awkwardly, he added.

Asking $50,000 damages, he declared that Harrison had fired "negligently, recklessly, wantonly, and without warning or notice."

The two men live across the street from each other in a Wood county suburban area of Toledo.

Before 1847 letters in the United States were sent with postage to be collected on delivery and letters were often refused by the recipient.
